

Swan High Yield – USD August 2017

Strategy

The sub-fund aims to generate a significant excess return vs 3m Libor in combination with below-average market volatility. Depending on market conditions, the strategy combines in variable proportions the "buy and hold" investment in a highly diversified and granular portfolio of liquid short-term fixed income securities with the "strategic" and/or "tactical" investment in HY or EM securities denominated in hard currency.

Global market picture

During August, European credit markets experienced a slightly negative performance (Xover 2bps wider at 236bps) in tandem with a negative movement of the Eurostoxx 50 (-0.81%), while S&P500 reached new historical highs at 2'471, almost flat during the month. Nervousness arose in the market due to North Korea missile tests, that increased tensions with the US and showed different positions among the different parties (US, South Korea, China and Russia) on how to reply to this offence: for the moment it seems that the situation will not escalate to war as it would be negative for all parties; anyway it remains an issue that can give some volatility in the future. On the macro side, global growth is still solid while inflation remains missing: this makes the tapering for the ECB more difficult to be implemented, postponing again market consensus on the reduction of monthly purchases to October (from € 60bn to € 40bn); EURUSD strength is not helping on this, with a possible reduction on inflation projections for the future; while the FED seems ready to announce the start of balance sheet normalization during its September meeting. On the rates side the 10 Treasury yield was lower at around 2.11% (-18 bps) due to North Korea tensions, the same for the 10 Year Bund yield lower at 0.36% (-18bps). EM credit market had a positive return this month, continuing the recent trend and benefiting from the tapering postponement from DM central banks.
