During September, European credit markets experienced a negative performance (H9PC Index -0.07%), in tandem with the movement of the Eurostoxx 50 (-3.53%) and S&P 500 (-4.76%). The liquidity crisis that hit Evergrande, the biggest China Property developer, negatively impacted both equity and credit markets: the company has close to $300bn in liabilities and missed payment on a coupon the 28th of September. While the Chinese Government did not release any statement suggesting a possible bail-out of bondholders, the PBOC injected substantial liquidity in the financial system in order to support the economy. In the end, we think the government will act to prevent a domino effect on the sector and on the financial system, facilitating an orderly restructuring of Evergrande liabilities avoiding an immediate potential systemic risk. Strong inflation data in US and Europe further raised concerns that the move up in prices could not be transitory as widely expected: inflation is raising in many countries due to post pandemic reopening and pressure is mounting on central banks to start winding down stimulus launched in 2020. Norwegian Central Bank was the first to raise rates, indicating another rate hike in December this year and BOE said the case for tightening policy has "strengthened" recently; the FED expects tapering before the end of the year and a first rate hike in 2022, while the ECB said it will buy less bonds in a sign of confidence that economic recovery will not derail. In this context, the 10 years bund yield was higher at -0.20% (+18bps in the month), in tandem with the 10 years Treasury at 1.49% (+18bps in the month). Gold was lower at 1758 $ per ounce, while oil was up at 79 USD per barrel, highest level since 2018. We think that this is still an interesting entry point for our strategy: current YTM gives us confidence on the capability to generate positive performance in line with targets during 2021; average maturity of the bonds in our portfolios is still around 1 year and should help reduce volatility in case of new episodes of market stress.

Yield-type strategy

The bucket generated a gross negative contribution to the monthly performance, with 47% of the positions (48 out of 103) contributing positively. The YTM remains attractive and conditions are always interesting in the short-term part of the credit curve. The average life of the yield-type portfolio is very short (11 months or 0.89 of spread duration), combined with a gross yield of 2.34% (in EUR) and z-spread of 294 basis points.
