High Yield Credit markets reported a contrasting performance in August ranging from -0.87% for EM corp HY to +0.25% of the EU HY while equity markets were negative with both the S&P500 (-1.77%) and Eurostoxx50 (-3.9%). The IG EUR market was positive by +0.38% and the short-term (1-3 year) H1WN global HY index reports a positive performance of +0.08%. The Global unconstrained (in terms of maturity) HY index was flat at -0.02%. Central banks were on holiday due to summer period, but the Jackson Hole meeting gave some idea of next steps in monetary policy: Jerome Powell reiterated the message that inflation remains too high and interest rates will likely be higher for longer, leaving doors open for a rate hike in September, even if decision will be data dependent; on the same tone, Christine Lagarde did not give a clear view on next ECB movement. In Europe the decline in headline inflation stalled in August, as it remained at 5.3%: however, core inflation, which remain key to ECB, eased from 5.5% to 5.3% YoY. In US inflation data was broadly in line, while flash PMI for both services and manufacturing came below expectations. Pressure remained high in China, with continuous downward revision of 2H growth, even in the last day of the months several new measure to revive growth have been approved. In this context, the 10 years bund yield was substantially flat at 2.47% (-3bps in the month), while the 10 years Treasury was higher at 4.11% (+15bps in the month). Oil moved higher to 87$ per barrel, while US dollar recover some ground with DXY at 103.61. Our funds have a yield to maturity between 7.5% and 11%, combined with an average spread duration around 16 months. The combination of higher diversification, higher credit quality and higher expected yields paves the way for extremely attractive returns in the next future.
