High Yield Credit markets reported a mixed performance in May ranging from -1.30% for EM corp HY to +0.55% of the EU HY in tandem with the movement of the S&P500 (+0.25%) and Eurostoxx50 (-3.24%). The IG EUR market was positive by 0.18%. The short-term (1-3 year) H1WN global HY index also reports a negative performance of -0.29% YTD while the Global unconstrained (in terms of maturity) HY lost -0.79%. The month started with meetings of the main central banks. The FED raised rates by 25bps, signaling that it might soon pause its aggressive monetary tightening campaign. Powell said that credit crunch could act as a substitute for further rate rises by dampening economic activity, even if data from US indicated that growth is still solid and resilient (strong gains in US April good spending and employment still at tight level of 3.4%). Anyway FED officials stressed the need for "flexibility and optionality" in setting monetary policy, suggesting that after a likely pause in June, further hikes could follow in case inflation should not correct downward. ECB followed the FED and raised deposit rate by 25bps to 3.25%, clearly indicating that "we have more ground to cover and we are not pausing, that is extremely clear". Markets now expect two more hikes by European Central Bank to 3.75%, which would match its highest-ever level in 2001. Oil moved lower to 73$ per barrel, while US dollar recovered some ground with DXY at 104.32. Thanks to the recent volatility spike we have been able to add several new credit stories at very interesting levels of credit spreads: our funds have a yield to maturity between 7.5% and 12%, combined with an average spread duration around 16 months. The combination of higher diversification, higher credit quality and higher expected yields paves the way for extremely attractive returns in the next future.

Yield-type strategy

The bucket generated a negative gross contribution to the monthly performance, with 78% of the positions (132 out of 170) contributing positively. The YTM remains attractive and conditions are always interesting in the short-term part of the credit curve. The average life of the yield-type portfolio is very short (15 months or 1.24 of spread duration), combined with a gross yield of 7.72% (in EUR) and z-spread of 455 basis points.
